

Access to Services and Livelihood of Poor women

Supported by Program of Maju Perempuan Indonesia untuk
Penanggulangan Kemiskinan (MAMPU)

Research Sharing Event, 2014-2015
Jakarta, March 31, 2015

Background

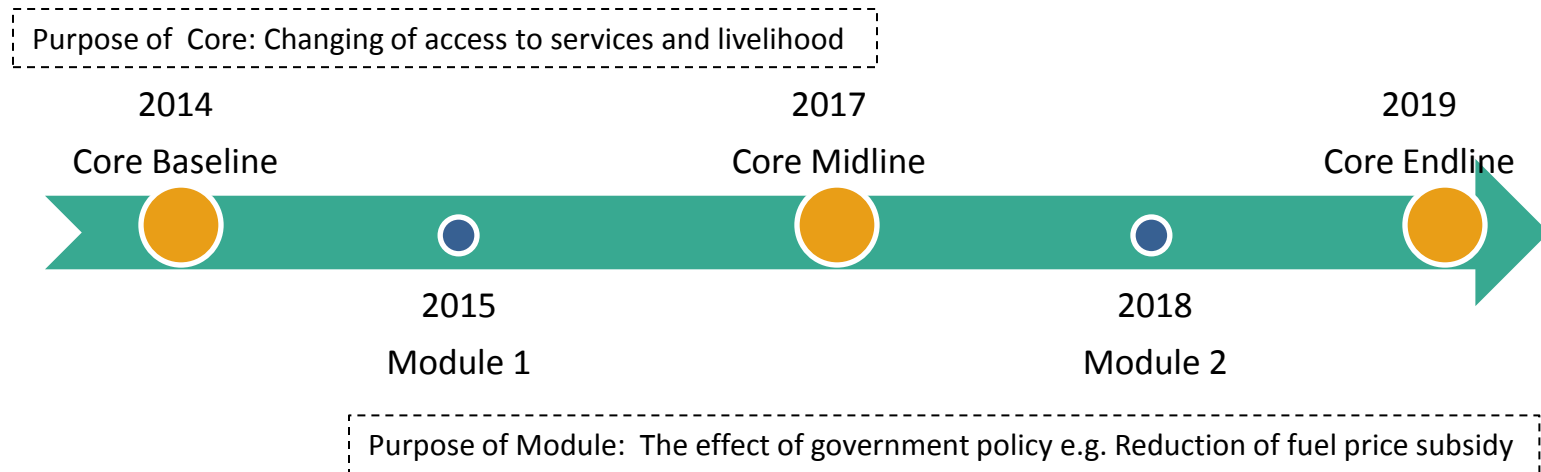

- Feminization of poverty
- General purpose: Long term monitoring the changing access to services and livelihood of poor women in some areas in Indonesia

Number of poor women increased 978,378 from 2009 to 2012

(Source: SUSENAS)

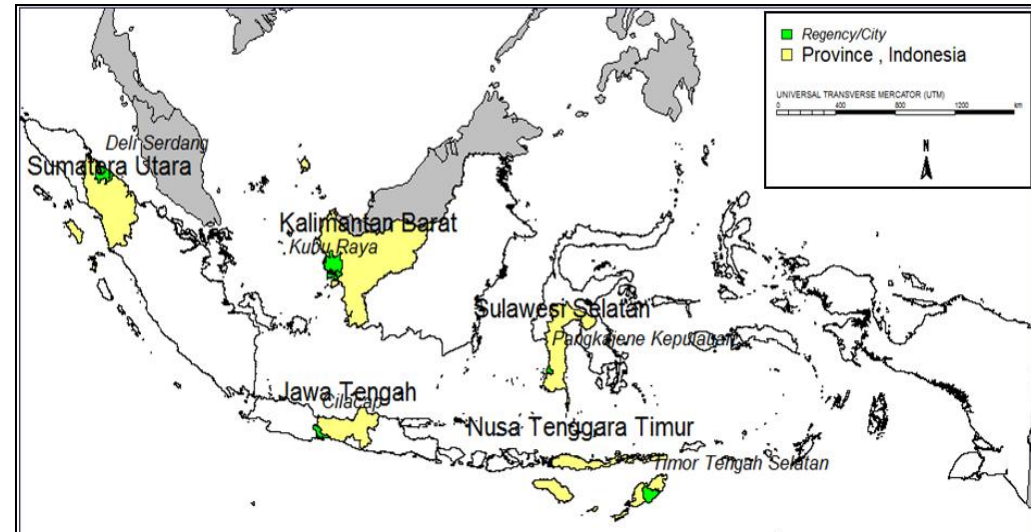

- Core study and module study from 2014 to 2019

- Focus in 5 working themes of MAMPU:
 1. Social Protection
 2. Working
 3. Maternal and reproductive health
 4. Migrant workers
 5. Violence against women
- Methodology
 - Quantitative: Family survey
 - Qualitative: FGD, in-depth interview, observation

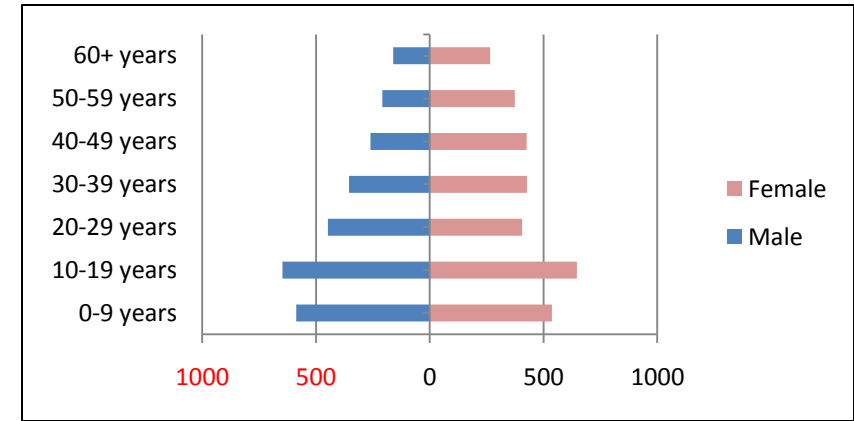

Methodology (2)

- Location: 15 villages in Deli Serdang, Cilacap, Kubu Raya, Pangkep, & TTS
 - Represents 5 themes
 - Represents partners
 - Relatively high poverty rate
- Baseline Timeframe:
 - Field work: October and November 2014
 - Report of qualitative findings: December 2014
 - Writing of Baseline final report: March 2014

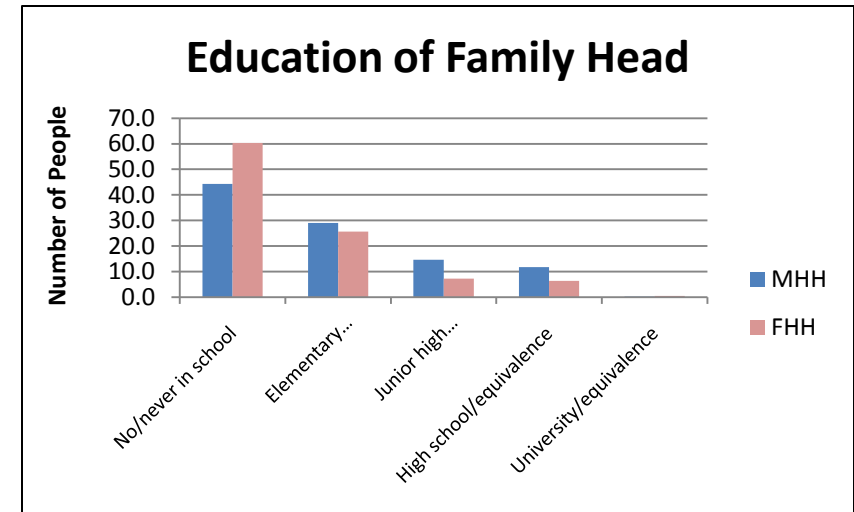

Family Characteristics

- 1,518 families: 961 Male Headed Family (MHF) & 557 Female Headed Family (FHF)
- 5,747 individuals

(Source: Survey)

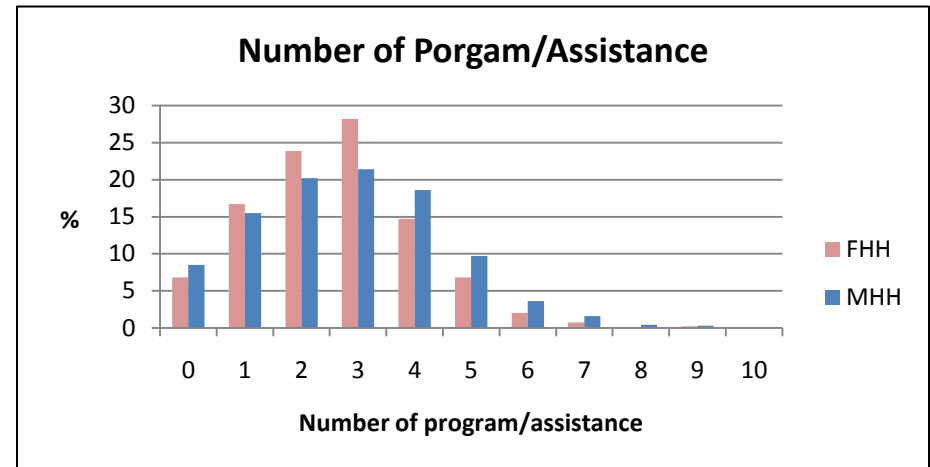

(Source: Survey)

Baseline Preliminary Findings (1)

- Female headed family access almost all government assistances except for the assistance of production facility for fishery and micro credit

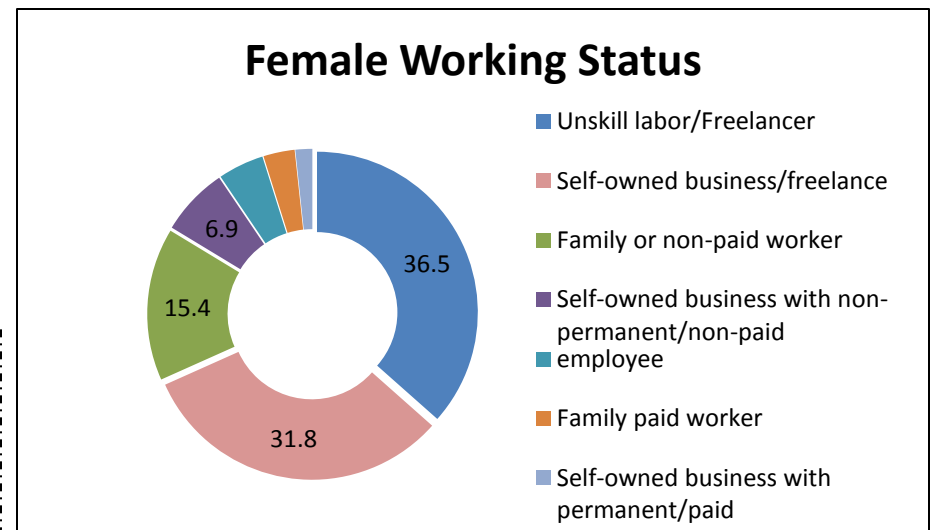

Generally MHFs & FHHs receive 2-3 government programs

(Source: Survey)

- 60% of females are working either as their primary activities of not

Umumnya perempuan bekerja sebagai buruh (36%) & 15% sebagian bekerja membantu keluarga tanpa dibayar

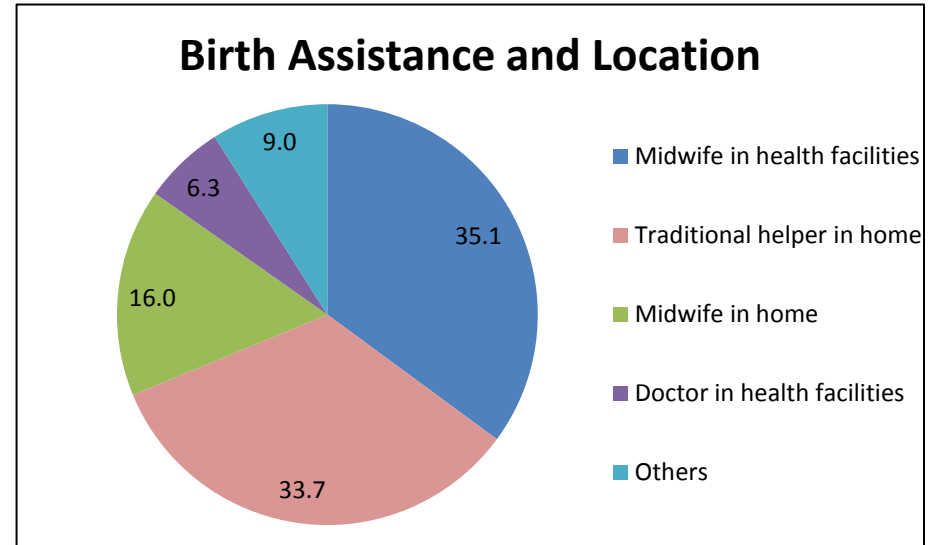

(Source: Survey)

Baseline Preliminary Findings(2)

- According to the place of giving birth, most female not use the health facility

Many females gave birth at their home with the assistance of midwife or traditional helper

(Source: Survey)

- Migrant participation depends on the culture, networking, and motivation to obtain a better job
- Violence against women still perceive as only part of family problem that should not be known by others. Thus the cases then to be unknown except in TTS.

THANK YOU

Toward Pro-poor Policy through Research

www.smeru.or.id

@SMERUInstitute

The SMERU Research Institute

SMERU Research Institute

Research Team:

Rahmitha

Hastuti

Dyan Widyaningsih

Niken Kusumawardani

Dinar Dwi Prasetyo

Nila Warda

Hafiz Arfyanto

Veto Tyas Indrio